Grayling To Play Gaylord Sunday

LOCALS TROUNCED MIO 15 TO 4 SUNDAY

Grayling Merchants, an independent baseball team, has been organized and are an up and coming aggregation. In all they have played six games and have many more scheduled for the season. What they would like now is some support from local fans: everybody likes baseball, so next Sunday when Grayling takes on Gaylord, let's have a big crowd of Grayling rooters on the sidelines. It makes the game all the more interesting to have a big crowd. The game Sunday will be called at 2:00 o'clock. In a game played with Gaylord earlier in the season Grayling won 9 to 8. his subject "King of Hearts."

As we stand, about ready to take one of the most important steps in our lives, we begin to for relief and aid for the aged think seriously about our future and the afflicted. and to wonder just what it holds in store for us. In this great step from high school into the vast unknown, we are faced with numerous problems to be solved and difficulties to be overcome We must not be discouraged at failure, rebuke or defeat. If we are going to attempt great things in life, we must remember that we are starting on a trunk-line. All continental trunk-lines have tunnels here and there. But these tunnels are black only with temporary gloom. It is only the short roads that do not run through the mountains. Tunnels flashes of darkness—are certain to those who have troubles, difficulties, and discouragements.

During these years in school we have been gaining an education. An education is the ability to overcome and conquer these problems and difficulties. There-fore, whether or not we win out in life is partially dependent upon how much we have taken advantage of the opportunities offered in school.

It is hard to say definitely upon what success or failure is dependent. Success is in us and not in the realms of luck. The world will furnish the work to do, but it is up to us to furnish the eft Flint Sunday afternoon and Monsaid, "Seek, and we shall find." We cannot always expect to find

Fitzgerald Here Monday

Says He Will Defeat Gov. Murphy

Frank D. Fitzgerald, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, promised to "put the state treasury on a sound basis again" during a pre-cam-paign visit to Grayling Monday

The former governor met friends and supporters in an informal gathering at Shoppenagons Inn Monday afternoon. He declared the enthusiastic receptions he received everywhere in-dicate a strong trend toward ousting Michigan's "little New Deal" government.

"It is more important than ever before in the history of the state that there be a Republican victory in Michigan this fall," Fitz-gerald said. "This state has been used as a proving ground by the national administration. It was here that sit-down strikes were allowed to start and flourish A personal selection of President Roosevelt's was brought back from the Philippine Islands to run for governor. He was supposed to carry the ticket, but actually he ran 250,000 votes behind the

"The state deficit is approaching the $20,000,000 mark. Day by day it is piling up a burden of the taxpayers, and the ex-travagant spending is accomplishing nothing. More than $8,000,-000 a year of it is being used to meet increased payrolls. The Democratic administration in Lansing has established the greatest spoils system we have ever had. In every department scores and hundreds of employes who are not needed have been hired. The money being expended for patronage is sorely needed

"When I took office in 1935 there was a deficit of $5,600,000. When I left office at the end of 1936 the deficit had been retired and there was a surplus in the treasury of $8,775,000. This was accomplished by reducing, rather than increasing payrolls and by insisting upon economical, efficient government. It was done then, and it can be done again. The record is there to prove what happened during the last administration and what is happening

"I am convinced the people of Michigan have had enough. I am thoroughly convinced I will de-feat Governor Murphy in Nov-

Respect For The Flag (By Edgar Flory)

The observance of June 14th as Flag Day surely means more than the display of the colors and the saluting of the flag. The American flag is but the symbol of the ideals which we hold for our nation-of liberty and justice freedom and honor, peace and democracy. To respect the flag, then, is to believe in and work for these things.

justice; suppose we wave the flag and sing its glory, but obstruct the progress of our nation toward true democracy, do we really respect that flag? Do not the followers of that sect, Witnesses of Jehova, who refuse to salute the flag because of reli scruples, show far more respect for it than do their persecutors who have no God but the nation When officials of cities, wearing American flags, refuse to allow speak in their cities, thereby violating the constitutional righ of free speech, do they not there-by dishonor the flag? When fanatical mobs throw spoiled eggs and vegetables at men who are pleading the cause of the downtrodden, do not these mobs do done more injury to the constitution and to the flag than they do to the persons at whom these missiles are thrown? And when these mobs carry the American flag during their attacks, do they not dishonor it all the more?

What will it profit a nation if its people respect the flag with make people happier or add to their lips but dishonor it by their deeds?

We respect the flag truly only when we live and stand for the ideals and principles of which the flag is the symbol.

Strict Chain Store Supervision Increases Revenue

Dr. Miles D. Pirnie, director of the farm-sanctuary, regards the presence of 13 young mute and whooper swans on the premises fortunate, although he does wisl the number were larger.

The fuzzy little swans are among the scores of youngsters whose arrival has added to the population of waterfowl at the sanctuary this spring. The remainder of the new arrivals are ducks, all mallards. These num ber about 200, hatched in the some 30 nests in the area.

Two of the young swans being kept temporarily in small enclosure for close inspec tion of visitors, while dozens of the ducklings may be seen swim ming about with their parents.

Baseball Origins

The "father of baseball," notes a writer in the Detroit News, was Doubleday, of Cooperstown N. Y., in 1839, when he was twenty years of age. While a crude form of the game had been played for some years, Doubleday introduced the bases and some other features of the present game. Alexander J. Cartwright, one of the organizers of the first baseball club, the Knicker bockers of New York, in 1845, was the creator of the baseball diamond. The first real match game was played in Hoboken, N. J., in June, 1846, and the first baseball association was formed in 1857.

MOOSE TRAPPING In Poetry "Rubai" Means

Another chapter is now being added to the story of Michigan's moose trapping and transplanting experiment, but without much opportunity for human eyes to witness its enactment.

This is the normal period for the arrival of moose calves, extending through the month, the time depending upon the time of breeding. Like the doe, the ccw moose takes good care to hide its young, and it gives added protec tion in that it is better equipped than the doe to fight off any as sailants and fears virtually no woods creatures. Last year at least a dozen reports were received by the department of conservation of mose calves being sighted in different parts of the upper pen-insula. The young moose, like to follow its mother around.

The Fall of Nassau

In 1776, during the war between Great Britain and the American col onies, a fleet of eight vessels was sent by the latter to Nassau, capital of the Bahamas, with instructions to capture the large quantities of munitions believed to be stored there. This force, under Admiral Hopkins, landed a detachment on the easters extremity of New Providence island and marched on Nassau, Forts Montague and Nassau surrendered with out resistance, and the new "Grand Union flag." consisting of the Union Jack in the first quarter and thirteen red and white stripes to repre the independent states, hoisted over Fort Nassau. The in vaders took 100 guns and a small quantity of other war munitions But they left the following day.

Basilisk Lizards Are Jumpers Four species of basilisk lizards abound in and near Central Amer ica, but are nowhere else. They range in length from a few inches to three feet. Most of their lives are spent in trees along rivers Great climbers and jumpers, they do not hesitate to dive from a loft, tree into the water. So swiftly do they run on their hind legs that they can "run" across streams. And they can stop so abruptly human eyes cannot follow them.

a Stanza of Four Lines

"Rubaiyat," pronounced "roo bye-vaht." accent on the last syllable, is the plural form of "rubai," a word of Arabic origin meaning something made up of four parts In poetry, notes a writer in the In-dianapolis News, "rubal" means a quatrain or a stanza of four lines. The plural form of the word has be famous in connection with the 'Rubaiyat' of Omar Khayyam, a Persian mathematician, astronomer, freethinker, and epigrammat ist, who was born in or near Naishapur in the early part of the Eleventh century. "Khayyam," pronounced "Kye-yam," is a Persian word signifying tent-maker and probably refers to the occupation of Omar's father.

Although Omar is known in the western world chiefly as a poet and freethinker, he was a man of profound learning and by profession a mathematician and astronomer. His treatise on algebra is considered the greatest contribution of his country and age to the subject of mathematics, and it led Sultan Malik Shah to appoint him one of the eight distinguished scientists to make astronomical researches with the view of reforming the Mohammedan cal andar. When preferment at court was offered him Omar requested that instead an independent income be given him and that he be permitted to live in retirement and devote his entire time to scientific pursuits. Nominally he was a Moham medan, but his verses clearly reveal a freethinker protesting against the creeds of the Moslem sects of

It is doubtful whether Omar wrote all the more than 500 epigrammatic verses ascribed to him No critic has been able to establish their absolute authenticity. Omar bears about the same relation to the "Rubalyat" that Aesop does to the writings known as "Aesop's Fables." Edward Fitzger-ald (1809-1883), an English man of letters, made Omar famous in the western world by his classic translation of the "Rubaiyat."

Clonfinlough Stone Is

Ireland's Oldest Monument A suburb of the old town of Clon-macnoise, Ireland, contains the most ancient monument to be found in all of Ireland. It is the Clonfinlough stone, which is said to date back to Neolithic times, or, in other words, the Stone age. It is the pride of the near-by townland of Clonfinlough. with its church, its school, its postoffice and its little general store, observes a writer in the Boston Herald.

Clonfinlough's agricultural area is small, but grows yearly, the young men finding pleasure in annihilating that wicked weed of destruction, the furze, and making it give place to growths of value, notably potatoes, which seem well-suited to the ground here.

The markings of Clonfinlough stone are said to record a fight to a finish between the local cross-men and the invading loop-men, says one authority, with victory for the former, and are similar to rock markings to be found in Spain, proving the Spanish and Irish long before the days when St. Patrick brought the blessings of Christianity to Ire-

Women Follow Men in Hunt The women in the Kalahari desert of the Bechuanaland protectorate, often with babies on their backs, tollow the men on the hunt wherever it leads them. And when the game is killed, they all settle down to a feast of raw meat. After a feast of this kind, especially when the moon is full, the Bushmen dance throughout the night. The women paint their hodies and faces with blood in a barber-pole pattern, and the men adorn themselves with jackals' tails stuck in their hair, and rattles at their ankles. They dance to the moon, fertility and to the living grass, and imitate the hyena and the cland, mimicking the animals feeding, fighting and gamboling. For music they monotonously chant a few weird notes and clap their hands. Sometimes they strum a single wire stretched from a peg in the ground or strung on a bow.

Gave Chorea Its Name

A medieval mania for religious dancing gave chorea its common name. Once started, says the Washington Post, people found they couldn't stop, made pilgrimages to various shrines, found most relief at that of St. Vitus. Chorea usually strikes boys and girls between five and fifteen, strangely, those of above average intelligence. In severe cases the patient cannot walk, talk, eat, sleep, do anything for himself. His muscles twitch involuntarily, act so wildly the disease sometimes is called "insanity of the muscles."

ANOTHER FERRY ADDED TO STATE FLEET

Lansing, June 15.—The "City of Munising", latest addition to the state's ferry fleet, will be christened at Escanaba Sunday afternoon, June 26.

With the distance to Munising too far to be considered for the christening ceremonies, city and civic authorities from that community will be in charge of the program at Escanaba. A full contingent of flags will be presented by the city for the new boat.

The boat will leave Manitowoc, Wisconsin, where it is being remodeled for service at the Straits of Mackinac, on Saturday morn-ing June 25. It will arrive at Menominee that afternoon where it will remain overnight. next morning the boat will leave for Escanaba where another overnight stop will be made after the christening program which starts at 1:00 o'clock in the afternoon. The ferry will go into service from St. Ignace the afternoon of June 27.

Highway authorities said the Escanaba run is being made primarily to give the new ferry a thorough test after extensive alterations at Manitowoc. A secondary reason is the desire Munising to stage a public cele-bration which will include an escort of pleasure craft for the ferry as it enters the Escanaba harbor, a parade, floats, etc. Overnight stops are required under Federal Maritime regulations in reference to working hours of

Common Milkweed Named for Juice in Its Stem

The flowering weeds known as milkweeds are an interesting group considering the place the plants have in the herb doctor's practice. observes a writer in the Chicago Tribune. The common milkweed gets its name from the fact that a milky solution flows from the stem when it is broken. One of the species (Butterfly weed or Pleurisy root) was used by the Indians for medicine and food. They used the root in the treatment of pleurisy. cooking of buffalo meat, much as green peppers are used by housewives for seasoning

The Indians also extra sugar from the milkweed. The narrow-leaved milkweed has a practical use in the southern states, where the juice of the plant is extracted and used as a remedy for snake and insect bites.

The milkweed provides a fiber that is used in paper making and the weaving of inexpensive cloths. Several varieties of oil have been made from the seeds and the stem.

Use Roses as Food The Chinese serve fritters on their New Year's day made from rose petals. Years ago rose buds were served on tables like radishes. One of the legends is that Cupid, hurrying to a council of deities on Olympus with a vase of nectar, fell and spilled the contents. Roses sprang from this nectar. One of the myths pertaining to roses, notes a writer in the Rural New-Yorker, is that Milto, a maid, gave flowers to Venus. This maid had a tumor on the chin and Venus told her to apply roses from the altar to the swelling as a cure. The rose is used in arts and sciences and is related to the apple, pear and berries.

Oysters Are Prolific

Oysters are very prolific. The Atlantic coast species spawn five or six times during the season-from May to August. An oyster may discharge as many as one-half billion eggs in a season. Only a few survive. Less than one per cent hatch and reach maturity. The eggs hatch and the young begin to swim in a few hours. At the end of the day they form a bivalve shell. then attach themselves permanent ly to rocks or other submerged objects. They feed on microscopic water life and grow rapidly.

At the Ironwood round-up we heard emphatic statements on every hand of the practical necessity of a span at the Straits.

Engineer Boosts It

Five years ago the idea of a bridge from Mackinac City to St. Ignace was regarded by state officials here as rather fantastic.

Not only was the engineering problem gigantic, but its financing offered a stumbling block to planners. The length of the structure would be about five miles, a maximum span of 1,700 feet with 150 feet clearance above the water and the maximum foundation depth for two piers supporting the main span of about 200 feet.

As for the cost, Prof. J. H. Cissel of the University of Michigan, secretary of the Mackinac ing for an average traffic increase at the Straits of 221/2 per cent each vear.

Last week-end we journeyed an annual meeting of the Upper straits bridge authority, estimates the total investment at 25 to 35 million dollars and he insists that the bridge will pay its own way from the start in toll charges.

Completion

Completion of the San Fran-cisco-Oakland bridge and the Golden Gate bridge have convinced skeptics that the Mackinac span is possible as an engine ering achievement. Michigan's tourist business is growing steadily, and highways in the upper peninsula are yet in the early stages of development. Project the tourist needs 25 years from today, and you will find it easy to be convinced that the Straits span would be an outstanding Newspaper space, worth $100,-000 a year, is offered free to the tourist industry of Michigan by daily and weekly newspapers in the Michigan Press association under the leadership of Chester M. Howell, publisher at Chesan-

In a speech before the Upper bureau, Howell declared that newspapers were ready to pledge this amount of their space for promotion of every section of Michigan in a co-operative program designed to acquaint residents with their recreational, industrial and agricultural resources.

The "Know Michigan" pro-gram, Howell said, would effect $10 worth of advertising for every $1 of actual cost in preparphotographs, news articles, mats and other incidential expense. And not a dime of it would go directly to any news-

Norman Thomas

The fanfare at Jersey City over Mayor Hague's free speech ban the two peninsulas equal the total against Norman Thomas, socialist leader, recalls the tameness of Thomas' visit to the Michigan capitol city. At Michigan State where students tossed labor agi tators into the river as an episodo of the C.I.O. city holiday in 1937 the stately and scholarly Norman Thomas spoke at the People's church College classes were dis-missed by order of President Robert Shaw so that students could hear him.

Instead of getting columns newspaper publicity glorifying him. Thomas found that he was just another lecturer. The whole affair proved to be as imexciting as a strawberry soda.

Communist Influence

Following the C.I.O. "holiday" here at the Capitol City, Gover nor Frank Murphy spanked budding law and order leagues and declared that communistic in fluences had been responsible for the labor uprising.

Like a ghost of 1937 sit-down strike. William W. Weinstone, secretary of the Michigan Com-munist party, declared at the 10th ers in democratic circles. Communists favor a united front for "progressive action in he 1938 elections."

And so, whether the governor wants them or not, he's going to have the communists on his side next November!

School Bogeys

One of the most well organized and effective groups in Michigan is the Michigan Education sociation, representing thousands of public school teachers.

They constitute a power at ansing. The legislature is usually receptive to their demands.

Declining revenue from the state sales tax has caused a pro-portionate cut in distribution of state funds to primary school dis-tricts. Recently at Flint a pro-posal was voiced by educator that all proceeds from the sale tax be turned over to the schools The bogey is an old one; curtail-ment or shutdown of school facilities unless more financial aid is secured.
